Provost and Chief Executive

Attractive salary and equity package

London

The University of Law is at a transformational point in its history. Its landmark £200m sale to Montagu Private Equity followed the award of full university status in November 2012. With a current turnover of around £75m, and a reputation for programme provision of the very highest quality, the institution is firmly established as the UK's leading specialist provider of legal education and professional development. Additionally, the globalisation of the education sector, the ongoing demand for high quality programmes in the UK, and the rapid development of technology-enabled teaching and learning mean the University of Law is ideally positioned to build significantly on its current success and deliver outstanding commercial results.

As Nigel Savage moves into the role of President, a new Provost and Chief Executive is sought to lead the University through this important period in its development whilst ensuring a continuing focus on academic standards and quality. Candidates must be able to demonstrate:
a track record of successful leadership within an appropriate multinational setting; a global mindset with extensive experience developing international partnerships; vision, with strategic thinking ability of the highest order; commercial and financial acumen, comfortable working in a target-driven environment; and outstanding interpersonal and communication skills, able to persuade and influence effectively externally, and engage with staff at every level internally.

For more information, including how to apply, please refer to the website of our employment agency advisors, Saxton Bampfylde Ltd, at www.saxbam.com/jobs using reference BADMA. Alternatively, email BADMA@saxbam.com or telephone +44 (0)20 7227 0890 during office hours. Applications should arrive no later than noon on Tuesday 28 May 2013.

The University of Law is an international organisation committed to the promotion of equal opportunities, and welcomes applications from candidates regardless of gender, ethnicity, religion, age or social background.

Competitive salary

The Higher Education Academy (HEA) performs a unique role. As the national body for learning and teaching in higher education, we work with academics and higher education institutions, as well as other HE providers, to help ensure that every student in UK higher education has the best possible learning experience. We provide a range of highly regarded services, schemes and resources to inspire, support and recognise effective practice in teaching and learning. Drawing on our expertise and our research base, we help to influence, shape and implement policy at local and national levels.

Following the appointment of our current Chief Executive to a Vice-Chancellor position, we are now seeking an outstanding individual to lead us through the next stage of our development, ensuring that our services continue to be exciting and innovative and extending our record of success in working internationally and with a wider range of HE providers. A highly respected and entrepreneurial leader, you will have a strong academic background combined with business acumen, experience of both developing and implementing strategic vision and the passion to be an effective advocate for learning and teaching in the UK and internationally. This is an excellent opportunity to make a difference to the lives of students throughout the UK and beyond.

Your Credentials

- An up to date knowledge of higher education, with a proven commitment to improving the student learning experience
- A successful track record of strategic and operational leadership and management, with a motivational and collaborative leadership style
- Personal presence, with excellent communication and ambassadorial skills
- Understanding of the policy context, with a good knowledge of the workings of government and relevant national bodies
- Experience of successful partnership working with a range of institutions and related organisations
- Entrepreneurial drive to diversify income sources both in the UK and overseas

A secondment would be considered.
