Cass Business School
CITY UNIVERSITY LONDON

Appointment of the Dean of Cass Business School

City University London is a global university committed to academic excellence with a focus on business and the professions and an enviable central London location.

The University attracts over 17,000 students (35 per cent at postgraduate level). Its academic range is broadly-based with world-leading strengths in business; law; health sciences; mathematics; computer science; engineering; social sciences; and the arts including journalism and music. The University is in the top 5 per cent of universities in the world according to the Times Higher Education World University Rankings 2013/14 and is ranked in the top 10 in the UK for graduate-level jobs (The Good University Guide 2014).

Led by Vice-Chancellor Professor Paul Curran, City has made significant investments in academic staff, its estate and its systems under its Strategic Plan and continues to work towards realising its vision to be a global university, positioned in the world's top 2 per cent.

Cass Business School is among the global elite of business schools with accreditations from the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB), the European Quality Improvement System (EQUIS) and the Association of MBAs (AMBA). Its MBA and specialist Masters degrees have global reputations for excellence. According to the Financial Times 2013 the MSc in Management is ranked 2nd in the UK and 14th in the world and the MSc in Finance 16th in the world.

The EMBA is consistently ranked among the world's top programmes and is 5th in the UK while the School's undergraduate business and management courses are ranked 4th in the UK by the Guardian University Guide 2014.

Following the success of Professor Steven Haberman's term of office, the University is seeking to appoint the new Dean to lead Cass through its next phase of growth and development. The successful candidate will demonstrate a strong academic track record with research likely to be rated world-leading or internationally-excellent; the ability and experience to devise and implement ambitious strategic plans for the School's development in its highly-competitive market; and the substantial leadership, management and financial skills to lead the School forward in its successful educational, research and enterprise activity.

For further details including information about the School, the strategic priorities for the Dean, the terms of appointment and how to apply, please visit www.perrettlaver.com/candidates quoting reference 1601. The closing date for applications is midday Wednesday 31st December 2014.

DEAN OF THE FACULTY OF SCIENCE

The University of Portsmouth is one of the UK's leading modern universities, with a strong reputation for teaching excellence and staff and student satisfaction, alongside internationally recognised research strengths. Situated at the heart of a historic city on a vibrant waterfront, the University contributes significantly to the regeneration of the city, raising aspirations and encouraging future generations to consider university education.

Following the appointment of Professor Paul Hayes as Pro Vice-Chancellor, this is an exciting opportunity for a new Dean to lead the Faculty of Science and to join the University Executive Board, led by the new Vice-Chancellor, Professor Graham Galbraith, to deliver the University's ambitious strategy.

The Faculty comprises the departments of Geography, Sport and Exercise Science and Psychology, the schools of Biological Sciences, Earth and Environmental Sciences, Health Sciences and Social Work and Pharmacy and Biomedical Sciences, along with the Dental Academy and the cross-departmental Institute for Biomedical and Biomolecular Science. The Faculty is proud of the quality of its taught programmes, which are underpinned by an excellent and expanding research base and by advanced professional practice. Research delivered by staff from within the Faculty has been submitted to REF 2014 under eight Units of Assessment. The Faculty has strong partnerships with the local NHS and employers more generally and hosts University networks on the Environment and Ageing.

Energetic and driven, the Dean will be highly regarded in a relevant discipline with a sound understanding of the higher education sector. A natural leader with a track record of successful delivery in a senior role, they will articulate a clear and inspiring vision for the development of the Faculty, and be able to build vibrant internal and external networks to further build on its success.

Salary will be commensurate with the senior responsibilities of the role. For further information including how to apply, please visit www.minervasearch.com/portsmouth. The closing date for applications is Friday 10 October 2014.

Nottingham Law School is one of the leading providers of academic and professional legal education in the country with an established record of delivering innovative and transformational courses. We are one of the largest law schools in the UK, offering a range of undergraduate degrees, academic and practitioner taught postgraduate courses and a strong research degrees programme.

The School has built a reputation for research in areas including insolvency law, business law, human rights, dispute resolution, sports law, medical law, legal education and criminal justice. We have long established links with policy makers, professional bodies and leading law firms, including a growing number of significant international associations. We have an extensive record of delivery of excellent bespoke training programmes for practitioners and professional bodies and have strengths in commissioned research, both in the UK and overseas.

The School has over 100 academic staff and in excess of 2,300 students, of whom over 500 are students studying on postgraduate or practitioner courses.

The School is seeking to appoint outstanding candidates to the following positions. All roles will be based at the City campus.

Head of Academic Post Graduate & Practitioner Portfolio Post No. L0198
Salary: £57,114 - £64,245

The post of Head of Academic Postgraduate and Practitioner Portfolio offers an exciting opportunity to lead a dynamic and growing area of the Law School's portfolio. Building on a strong record of achievement in the LLM suite of courses, the post holder will drive portfolio design and innovation, secure new markets and increase recruitment of both home and international students. The post holder will also lead the smaller, but strategically highly important suite of practitioner courses, including the Intellectual Property Suite, ensuring both their quality and future growth. The bespoke LLM Advocacy is also included in this portfolio. Substantial academic management experience is essential.

Lecturer/Senior Lecturer in Law Post No. L0197
Salary: £31,343 - £44,620

Applications are invited for a lecturing post to teach across the range of academic courses within the School. A first and higher degree in Law is essential. Candidates with interests in all fields of law will be considered.

Closing date: 22 October 2014

Interview date: 29 October 2014 (Head of Academic Post Graduate & Practitioner Portfolio) and 5 November 2014 (Lecturer/Senior Lecturer)

If you have any specific queries in relation to these positions, please contact Jenny Holloway, Acting Dean Nottingham Law School, on +44 (0)115 848 4182, or via email jenny.holloway@ntu.ac.uk

To submit an online application for this position please visit www.ntu.ac.uk/vacancies

If you require documentation in alternative formats (e.g. Braille, large print) please contact us at job.vacancies@ntu.ac.uk

Nottingham Trent University is committed to promoting equality and valuing diversity and we seek people who share those values.

Advertising for these role does not meet the minimum UK Visas & Immigration requirements for sponsorship under Tier 2 of the Points Based Immigration System. Nottingham Trent University is therefore unable to apply for sponsorship for applicants not eligible to work in the UK, however, applications from candidates switching from Tier 4 status may be considered.

Head of Leeds Law School

Competitive salary plus benefits

Part of Leeds Beckett University's Faculty of Business & Law, Leeds Law School has a long and distinguished heritage; we have been delivering high quality legal education in Leeds for over 70 years. We provide a full range of undergraduate, postgraduate and professional law courses, and the inter-disciplinary Law research unit has four principal areas of enquiry: legal education, higher education and the law, sports law and the criminal justice system.

Based in the heart of our University's City Campus, Leeds Law School encourages and supports students to improve their employment prospects by building links with the legal community and we have over 100 professional mentors from all areas of legal practice.

We are now seeking to appoint a new Head of School who can build on our existing profile and position Leeds Law School as the leading provider of legal education in the region. You will bring a relevant background in legal education, outstanding leadership and management experience and a track record of delivering growth and an outstanding student experience. You will also possess significant experience of working directly with the law profession and of designing and delivering innovative programmes that meet the changing needs of students and the law profession. A professorial title may be available for a successful candidate with the appropriate qualifications and experience to meet our University criteria.

Senior Vice Principal

A competitive and incentivising reward package will be offered

Founded in 1495, Aberdeen is Scotland's third oldest university and the fifth oldest in the UK. Ranked within the world top 140, Aberdeen is the 'global university of the north'. It is a broad-based, research intensive university which puts students at the heart of everything it does and has significant academic strengths and potential across a wide variety of disciplines.

With over 14,000 students, 3,600 staff and a turnover of £222 million, the University combines a distinguished heritage with great ambitions for the future.

The University is led by Principal & Vice Chancellor Professor Sir Ian Diamond, and is now seeking to appoint a Senior Vice Principal following the retirement of Professor Stephen Logan. The Senior Vice Principal will work with Professor Diamond in providing leadership within the University for all aspects of the strategic planning cycle, including co-ordinating the development and implementation of academic planning issues. The University has recently embarked upon a consultation process to develop a new Strategic Plan which will be implemented in 2015. The Senior Vice Principal will play a pivotal role in this ongoing process and will be central in shaping, delivering and evaluating the Plan.

The Senior Vice Principal will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to the values of a research-intensive institution, particularly in relation to the delivery of an outstanding student experience and the enhancement of collaborative and partnership working. The successful candidate will have a proven track record of success at a senior level in academic leadership and management, with experience of developing innovative and effective solutions to deal with complex issues in an evolving period of change; and will see this role as an important step in their career ladder. In addition, an academic track record of international standing, well-developed leadership and management skills and exceptional strategic, conceptual and organisational skills are essential.

Executive Dean, Faculty of Science & Technology

At Bournemouth University, our vision is to 'Create the most stimulating, challenging and rewarding university experience in a world-class learning community by sharing our unique fusion of excellent education, research and professional practice and inspiring our students, graduates and staff to enrich the world'. This vision, set in 2012, is well on the way to delivery.

We are a successful, modern institution, recognised as one of the most innovative universities in the UK and the most popular modern university for high achieving students. The University has a strong and growing reputation in research and knowledge exchange with academic excellence, supported by investment in intellectual and physical assets that are underpinning activity across all disciplines. With around 18,000 students, and 1,500 staff, we have created a set of learning opportunities for our students that is the first to be commended by the Quality Assurance Agency.

Bournemouth University is now seeking to appoint an Executive Dean to provide leadership for the Faculty of Science & Technology. The Faculty is internationally recognised as academically excellent in Science & Technology, and provides an excellent student experience, using the latest professional standard facilities and resources. The Faculty has 3,500 students and 170 academic staff across six departments and is the largest academic entity within the University. Reporting to the Deputy Vice-Chancellor and as a member of the University Leadership Team, the Executive Dean will play a key role in the wider corporate leadership of the University. The Executive Dean will shape and drive a strategy for continued growth in education and research following REF 2014 and support delivery of the targets set for the current strategic plan. They will provide strong academic, strategic, planning and operational leadership to the Faculty Executive Team and staff across education, research and professional practice.

Candidates for the post will be able to demonstrate a successful track record of academic and strategic management within a large complex organisation, bring evidence of having provided effective facilitative leadership and have the personal and academic credibility to be a strong advocate for the Faculty. A proven track record of successful strategic development and successful implementation is key to this role.

For further information about the role and details about how to apply, please refer to the website of Saxton Bampfylde, our employment agency advisors, at www.saxbam.com/jobs quoting code AABUT. Alternatively you may email AABUT@saxbam.com or telephone +44 (0)20 7227 0890 for further details. Applications should be received by noon on 23rd October 2014.

The University of Edinburgh Director of Library and University Collections

The University of Edinburgh is one of the world's leading academic institutions, internationally recognised for the quality of its teaching, research and wider economic and social impact. The University is enjoying a particularly successful period; in 2013 it was ranked 17th in the world according to the QS World University rankings and was also delighted with the announcement of Professor Peter Higgs, Emeritus Professor of Theoretical Physics, receiving the Nobel Prize in Physics.

Located in the beautiful and historic city of Edinburgh, the University comprises a dynamic and vibrant community of over 32,000 students and more than 12,000 staff. Its success is further reflected in its thriving financial performance, with a £750m turnover and over £300m in competitive research grants won in the last year, complemented by an asset base valued at £1.7bn. The University has also created 171 companies in the last five years, and the past year has seen the launch of the University's highly successful MOOCs (Massive Open Online Courses), attracting more than 450,000 active learners from 200 countries.

The University is seeking to appoint a Director of Library and University Collections in succession to Dr John Scally, with a significant track record of inspirational leadership in large and complex organisations. Reporting to the Chief Information Officer and as a member of the Information Services Senior Management Team, the Director will provide strategic leadership and a compelling vision for all Library and University Collections services, ensuring that learning, research and other related opportunities arising from the University's physical and digital resources and facilities are maximised for students, staff, and other stakeholders. The Director will be responsible for a core budget of £11m and approximately 150 staff.

The successful Director will demonstrate the appropriate style, stature, interpersonal and communication skills to engage positively across the University, with public and private sector partners and other strategic contacts both nationally and internationally. In order to fulfil these demands effectively, the individual will need extensive experience of managing significant collections and of strategic planning and operational leadership, including a track record of delivering innovative, flexible and responsive services, and will be committed to the ethos and values of the University.

In return, on offer is an exciting and forward-thinking academic environment, a generous remuneration package and access to significant professional development opportunities.

For further information, please visit: www.perrettlaver.com/candidates and download the Appointment Details by quoting reference 1741.

The closing date for applications is: Friday, 17th October 2014 at 12:00 noon BST.
