Rise to the challenge

Opportunities for research leaders with grand ambitions

Professorial and Readership appointments

Teesside University has a bold vision to help transform lives and economies. Underpinning this vision is a commitment to excellence in practical and impact-focussed research aligned to five interdisciplinary Grand Challenge themes: Health and Wellbeing, Resilient and Secure Societies, the Digital and Creative Economy, Sustainable Environments, and Learning for the 21st Century.

We are seeking to appoint 12 new research leaders with talent, energy and extensive experience around whom we will grow our teams over the next two academic years and establish the research areas that will make us distinctive.

Those areas include:

- > Energy systems integration (especially in the field of energy informatics)
- > Management and prevention of long-term health conditions (covering health behaviour change, patient experience, smart/e-health and health informatics)
- > Modern crime, harm prevention and security (with expertise in cyber- and online crime, and the use of biometric/personal data)
- > Applications of systems biology (with expertise in bioinformatics or bio-analytical sciences, to be based at our new National Horizons Centre in Darlington)
- > Psychology (covering health and wellbeing, ageing, social mobility and economic resilience)
- > Applied computer and data sciences (with expertise in digital technologies, AI and/or informatics, especially in digital healthcare, energy informatics, cybersecurity, biometrics or omics)

For an informal discussion please contact Professor Simon Hodgson, Pro Vice-Chancellor (Research and Innovation) on 01642 342008.

For further information about the roles and how to apply, please visit tees.ac.uk/researchjobs.

Chair and ONS Fellows

Can you help shape the future of economic measurement?

As the leading provider of official statistics, the ONS plays a unique part in informing national debate and decision-making across the UK. Our statistics are designed to support a wider public good in government, industry and across third sectors.

In September 2016, ONS established the ONS Fellowships and Economic Expert Working Group (EEWG) in response to Professor Sir Charles Bean's independent review of UK economic statistics to help advise us on our ambitious plans to improve our economic statistics. Two years later we are now looking to recruit a new Chair and ONS Fellows to continue the invaluable work of this Group.

These roles will be dynamic, varied, and fast-paced, enabling you to use your skills to the full. You will share expert knowledge with the ONS by providing guidance and assurance on the development of ONS Economic Statistics, and helping to deliver methodological improvements to ONS outputs and National Statistics.

Building on your impressive reputation as a leader in economic statistics that you have developed through your experience in academia, industry or the private sector, you will provide 'hands-on' support and constructive challenge to our teams, delivering bespoke analysis or short reports as necessary to help us find and deliver innovative solutions to complex problems.

To discover more about this opportunity and apply, please visit www.civilservicejobs.service.gov.uk using job reference number 1587485 to search for this vacancy. Closing date: 1 July 2018.

The Office for National Statistics is an equal opportunities employer and welcomes diversity. All applicants will be considered on merit.

As one of Europe's leading research universities, Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität (LMU) in Munich is committed to the highest international standards of excellence in research and teaching. Building on its more than 500-year-long tradition, it offers a broad spectrum that covers all areas of knowledge within its 18 Faculties, ranging from the humanities, law, economics and social sciences, to medicine and the natural sciences.

The Faculty of Languages and Literatures invites applications for a commencing on 1 October 2018.

Full Professorship (W3) of Nordic Philology (Chair)

The successful applicant will take a leading position in the field of Nordic Philology (Literary Studies) in both research and teaching. She/he is further expected to maintain a focus on modern Scandinavian literature in her/his publishing activities.

Prerequisites for this position are a university degree, a doctoral degree or a comparable specific qualification, teaching skills at university level, excellent academic achievements and a productive and promising research program.

LMU Munich makes a point of providing newly appointed professors with various types of support, such as welcoming services and assistance for dual career couples.

LMU Munich is an equal opportunity employer. The University continues to be very successful in increasing the number of female faculty members and strongly encourages applications from female candidates. LMU Munich intends to enhance the diversity of its faculty members. Furthermore, disabled candidates with essentially equal qualifications will be given preference.

Please submit your application comprising a curriculum vitae, documentation of academic degrees and certificates as well as a list of publications and teaching to the Dean of the Faculty of Languages and Literatures, Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München, Geschwister-Scholl-Platz 1, 80539 Munich, Germany, no later than 31 July 2018.
