The Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies, Geneva, Switzerland invites applications for the position of

DIRECTOR OF THE INSTITUTE

Founded in 1927, the Graduate Institute in Geneva is the first academic institution in the world entirely devoted to the study of international affairs. Its mission is to analyse contemporary global affairs through teaching, research and executive education, and to train in English and French current and future international actors at master's and doctorate levels.

Providing a tradition of excellence in academic education, offering an environment conducive to critical thinking and focusing on the priority areas of development, trade and investment, democracy, governance, humanitarianism, human rights, migration, refugees, security, environment, health, and gender, the Institute hosts an outstanding, internationally renowned faculty and a devoted professional staff.

The Institute's location in the heart of International Geneva offers a unique opportunity to interact and exchange with the policy world to the approximately 900 students currently enrolled in its interdisciplinary and disciplinary master and doctoral programmes in international affairs, development studies, anthropology and sociology, development economics, international economics, international history, international law, and international relations/political science, and to its international community of researchers and fellows as well.

The selected candidate will be expected to provide academic and administrative leadership to the Institute, promote excellence in all teaching and research as well as foster interdisciplinarity and innovative approaches to learning. The person will engage in strategic planning and development activities to expand the Institute's network nationally and internationally, and successfully meet emerging and accelerating global challenges.

Application deadline: 21 October 2018.

香港中文大學
The Chinese University of Hong Kong

Dean of the Faculty of Law

The Chinese University of Hong Kong now invites applications from and nominations of distinguished legal scholars for the position of Dean of the Faculty of Law.

Founded in 1963, The Chinese University of Hong Kong (CUHK) is a forward-looking comprehensive research university with a global vision and a mission to combine tradition with modernity, and to bring together China and the West. The University is home to nearly 17,000 undergraduate and 3,600 postgraduate students from around the world. As a top university in Hong Kong and Asia, CUHK aims to nurture students with both specialized knowledge and wisdom for life. The educational experience at CUHK is distinguished by a flexible credit unit system, a College system, bilingualism and multiculturalism. CUHK offers general education courses to broaden students' perspectives and develop in them the ability to face the challenges of contemporary society. Members of the university community undertake a wide range of research programmes in many subject areas, and the University strives to provide scope for all academic staff to undertake consultancy and collaborative projects with industry. The University's insistence on the highest standards of research has won it an enviable research reputation. With a team of over 3,000 full-time teaching and research staff, the University offers a broad spectrum of programmes up to the PhD level in various disciplines across its eight Faculties (Arts, Business Administration, Education, Engineering, Law, Medicine, Science and Social Science). Further information about CUHK may be found online at <http://www.cuhk.edu.hk>.

The Faculty of Law at The Chinese University of Hong Kong is one of Asia's most successful law schools. Since admitting its first students in 2006, it has developed as a major regional force in legal education. Amongst global law schools, the CUHK Faculty of Law is ranked 27th by the 2018 Times Higher Education World University Rankings by subject and 40th by the 2019 QS World University Ranking by subject. The 2014 Research Assessment Exercise by the Hong Kong University Grants Committee rated the CUHK Faculty of Law first among Hong Kong law schools, with 64% of its research ranked as "world leading" or "internationally significant". With more than 1,300 students enrolled in its programmes (LLB, LLM, JD, PCLL and MPhil/PhD), the CUHK Faculty of Law is the largest provider of legal education in Hong Kong. Further information on the Faculty is available at <http://www.cuhk.edu.hk/law>.

The Role

Hong Kong is an international city whose legal system is rooted in the Common Law tradition. It is well placed both geographically and culturally to play a preeminent role in meeting the educational needs of the fast-growing and increasingly globalized Asia-Pacific Region. Hong Kong demands a wide knowledge base and range of skills from its lawyers, who are locally, regionally and globally engaged. The new Dean will take on these opportunities to develop innovative teaching and research structures that cater to the needs of Hong Kong and the Asia-Pacific Region.

The Dean will have proven administrative and strategic leadership experience. He/she will be responsible for leading the Faculty and further strengthening its position as a globally leading law school. He/she will be a member of the University senior management team, reporting to the University Council via the Vice-Chancellor/President or the Provost.

Candidates should be legal scholars with international standing, qualified for appointment at senior professor level. They should have the requisite experience, interest and leadership qualities, including excellent interpersonal and communication skills.

Salary and fringe benefits for the post will be highly competitive, commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Applications and Nominations

CUHK welcomes applications from and nominations of qualified candidates for the role of Dean. Applications and nominations should be sent under confidential cover to the Search Committee for the Dean of the Faculty of Law, c/o Mr. Kieran Pollentine, Perrett Laver, via email: Kieran.Pollentine@perrettlaver.com. Further details about this position can be obtained by visiting <https://candidates.perrettlaver.com/vacancies/> and entering search reference 3699. The University's Personal Information Collection Statement will be provided upon request. All enquiries, applications and nominations will be treated in strict confidence.

Considerations of applications will begin in September 2018 and will continue until the post is filled. The University reserves the right to fill the post by invitation.

“Times Higher Education has helped to foster another important dimension of diversity at Harvard: international diversity. The exposure of Harvard's faculty positions on THEunijobs, since we embarked on our subscription package in October 2015, enhances our outreach efforts to a global community and showcases our institution as a destination of choice for academics around the world. Working with the THE team has also been a pleasure, and has enriched the conversation around international recruitment and retention.
