LEADING PROFESSORSHIPS TO ADDRESS GLOBAL CHALLENGES

As a TEF-Gold rated institution, the University of Lincoln is ranked 22nd in the UK in the Guardian University Guide and 42nd in The Times and Sunday Times Good University Guide.

We understand that research is at the heart of what it means to be a university. We are proud to be home to world-class researchers who are making significant contributions to their subject areas. This was reflected in the latest Research Excellence Framework, where more than half of the University's research was rated as world-leading or internationally excellent.

We are a fast-growing university, where staff and students work collaboratively on pioneering research that makes a tangible difference to people's lives. Our researchers are tackling some of the world's most challenging problems, from the fight against drug-resistant bacteria to mitigating the impact of climate change. The University is now looking to invest further in research leadership where we know we can make a significant difference.

We are looking for the best minds from around the globe to join our unique academic community and play a pivotal role in its future successes.

To enhance our existing research areas, and address some of the key challenges faced by society in the 21st Century, the University is looking to appoint Global Chairs in the following areas:

- Machine Learning
- Robotic Engineering
- Water Resources
- Soil Ecology and Ecosystems
- Industry 4.0; Operations and Supply Chain Management
- Public and Preventative Health
- Ageing and Elder Care
- Rural Health and Social Care
- Global Governance and Ecological Justice
- Digital Policing

The University is being supported in this process by Perrett Laver, an international executive search firm. ## 2019 Early Career Fellowships

The Early Career Fellowship scheme offers salary costs for researchers at the beginning of their academic career, providing them with the opportunity for career advancement, and enabling them to undertake a significant piece of original publishable research.

The scheme provides salary costs of 50 per cent of the Fellow's total salary – up to a limit of £25,000 – with the host institution providing the remaining share. Research expenses of £6,000 a year are also available. To be eligible, applicants must hold a degree from a UK university (or currently hold an academic post in the UK) and have submitted their doctoral thesis not more than four years before the application closing date of Thursday 28 February 2019.

Those currently registered for a doctorate may apply only if they have submitted their doctoral thesis by the closing date. Special consideration will be given to applicants who have taken a break in their academic career. Applications must be made through a host institution. The host department must have secured match funding for the Fellowship before the closing date for applications, and must confirm this as part of the application process. Fellowships last for three years, and must begin between 1 September 2019 and 1 May 2020. Approximately 100 fellowships are available in 2019.

Closing date: 28 February 2019

*Times Higher Education has helped to foster another important dimension of diversity at Harvard: international diversity. The exposure of Harvard's faculty positions on THEunijobs, since we embarked on our subscription package in October 2015, enhances our outreach efforts to a global community and showcases our institution as a destination of choice for academics around the world. Working with the THE team has also been a pleasure, and has enriched the conversation around international recruitment and retention.*
