College of Arts

The University of Glasgow, a world top-100 University and member of the prestigious Russell Group of leading UK research-intensive universities, is making a substantial investment in its College of Arts. Teaching and research in Arts and Humanities have been at the centre of the University since 1451.

The College of Arts is home to four Schools, housing a vibrant and diverse community of undergraduate and postgraduate students and staff from across the world. Based in one of the most friendly cities in the UK, and with access to the internationally significant Hunterian collections via the new Kelvin Hall facilities, Glasgow offers a stimulating and exciting environment for our research and teaching appointments.

School of Culture and Creative Arts

Professor / Head of School

Ref: 020313

You will provide academic leadership in the School, initially carrying out the Head of School role for the School of Culture and Creative Arts. In addition to a strong record of successful leadership at Subject/School level, you will have outstanding research achievements in one of the School's subject areas (Cultural Policy, Film and Television Studies, History of Art, Music, Theatre Studies) and a demonstrable track record of consistent and successful engagement with Cultural Theory/History and engagement with the creative arts and industries.

School of Humanities / Sgoil nan Daonnachdan

Professor in Museum Studies

Ref: 019250

You will oversee significant collaborative and interdisciplinary expansion of Museum Studies, extending Glasgow University's global influence in the field. We welcome applications from candidates with any specialism within Museum and Heritage Studies, particularly Digital Cultural Heritage. You will conduct internationally leading research and deliver research-led education, specifically by providing leadership for the rapidly expanding Museum Studies postgraduate programme, and contribute to leadership more broadly as required. You will help to shape the research agenda in Museum Studies at the University of Glasgow, with the specific remit of stimulating collaborative research and external grant applications involving colleagues both within and outside the School, including partners from the international cultural heritage sector and the Kelvin Hall Partnership.

Senior Lecturer / Reader in Information Studies Grade 9

Ref: 020190

You will undertake and promote international research in global contemporary library, archives and informatics, shaping archival research and practice on archives in contemporary society. Taking a leading role in the development and expansion of the Information Management and Preservation MSc Programme, you will play a vital part in leading the agenda of the School of Humanities.

Lecturer in Information Studies Grade 7 or 8

Ref: 020191

You will undertake high-quality research and research supervision, and make an active and high level contribution to teaching at undergraduate and postgraduate level in Information Studies, with a preferred focus on digital curation.

School of Critical Studies

Senior Lecturer / Reader in Applied Linguistics Grade 9

Ref: 020387

Leading the University's research and teaching in Applied Linguistics within English Language & Linguistics, you will specifically lead, design, and convene a new international Masters programme in Applied Linguistics and an associated international Summer School. You will also undertake and promote international research within the College of Arts and play a vital role in leading the agenda of the School of Critical Studies and the College of Arts, in line with the University, College and School strategic objectives.

School of Modern Languages and Cultures

The University values diversity and is committed to equality of opportunity.

The University has a responsibility to ensure that all employees are eligible to live and work in the UK.

“Times Higher Education has helped to foster another important dimension of diversity at Harvard: international diversity. The exposure of Harvard's faculty positions on THEunijobs, since we embarked on our subscription package in October 2015, enhances our outreach efforts to a global community and showcases our institution as a destination of choice for academics around the world. Working with the THE team has also been a pleasure, and has enriched the conversation around international recruitment and retention.
