Dairy Genetics & Nutrition Opportunities

SRUC (Scotland's Rural College) wishes to expand its activities in dairy teaching, research, and consultancy - supporting new initiatives both in the UK and internationally as part of the Edinburgh node of the Centre for Tropical Livestock Genetics and Health (CTLGH) a Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation funded initiative. To support this initiative, new roles have been created.

Professor (or Reader) in Global Dairy Systems – Dumfries:

To ensure SRUC provides opportunities to project UK dairy science internationally – both through promoting Agritech solutions in developed countries and innovating to support dairy systems in developing countries.

Professor (or Reader) in Dairy Nutrition – Dumfries:

To ensure precision livestock farming underpins the development of new approaches to dairy nutrition and will complement the expertise in dairy genetics / systems of the Langhill project.

Professor (or Reader) in Tropical Dairy Genetics/Genomics – Edinburgh:

Coordinating activities and leading the implementation of work with the vision of harnessing the genetic potential to increase tropical bovine climatic adaptation and to improve productivity within CTLGH.

Post-doctoral Research Assistant: Tropical Dairy Genetics/Genomics - Edinburgh:

Using computational methods to analyse and develop large genomic datasets, with a focus on tropical livestock genetics and health within CTLGH.

DEAN FOR LONDON	JOB REF: 010153	SENIOR POLICY ADVISOR	JOB REF: 010114

Closing date for the above posts: 7 November 2018

The University of Liverpool seeks to strengthen leadership in key strategic areas through appointment to the following new roles:

PRO-VICE-CHANCELLOR FOR PARTNERSHIPS / DEAN FOR LONDON / DEAN FOR XJTLU / SENIOR POLICY ADVISOR

Working with and as part of the Senior Team, the PVC for Partnerships will lead on a set of key external engagements and the development of significant partnerships, including a new international development at scale. Reporting to the Vice-Chancellor this role offers an exciting opportunity to join an innovative, internationally-renowned University with a substantial global presence which you will extend and deepen. Fostering new links and partnerships which further the ambitions set out in Strategy 2026, you will engage with colleagues across the University to identify appropriate opportunities and provide strategic leadership to key partnerships and initiatives to embed them fully within the University.

A new Dean for London will lead the advancement of the University's strategic interest and business plan for London, provide focused strategic leadership to the development of activities at the London Campus and work closely with the Deans and other leaders in Liverpool to maximise the opportunities which the London campus offers.

A new Dean for XJTLU will take responsibility in Liverpool for existing activities that the University has with our partner university in China, Xi'an Jiaotong-Liverpool University (XJTLU), play a significant role in developing a joint strategy for research and impact collaboration, and increase the ways in which the joint venture positively impacts on the education of students who start their studies in the UK.

The Senior Policy Advisor will support the Senior Management Team in ensuring the University is well positioned to anticipate, influence and strategically respond to developments across the HE policy landscape. Reporting to the Vice-Chancellor, the successful candidate will prepare regular policy briefings, obtaining, analysing and interpreting sector data and developing consultation responses.

Pro Vice-Chancellor/Dean of Arts, Design and Humanities

De Montfort University (DMU) is an ambitious, globally-minded institution with a relentless focus on delivering quality teaching and learning, relevant research and a sector-leading student experience.

The university is now seeking to appoint a new Pro Vice-Chancellor/Dean of Arts, Design and Humanities.

A superb strategic leader with exceptional credentials in their field, the new postholder will also support university-wide change and improvement in an innovative and agile manner, demonstrating and promoting counter-intuitive thinking where appropriate. Externally, s/he will represent the institution across a range of relevant audiences, working to enhance its brand and reputation regionally, nationally and internationally, for the benefit of all its students and stakeholders.

The Faculty of Arts, Design and Humanities aims to embed DMU as a national leader in creative education and research and takes pride in offering innovative courses which balance time-honoured artistic traditions with leading-edge technologies. For further information, including details of how to apply, please visit dmu.ac.uk/jobs

DMU strives for our staff to be as diverse as our student body. We have a diverse and progressive leadership team who strongly advocate the need to ensure the university enables all talent to flourish. Applications to this post are encouraged from all members of the community.

ASSOCIATE LECTURER / LECTURER

The Crawford School of Public Policy of The Australian National University (ANU) and the School of Business and Public Policy of The University of Papua New Guinea (UPNG) are in a partnership, supported by Australian Aid, to strengthen SBPP teaching, research and outreach. As part of this program, we wish to hire up to three academics as Associate Lecturers or Lecturers in fields related to economics and public policy.

The successful candidates will be academics (and employees) of the Crawford School at The Australian National University. They will be Visiting Lecturers at the School of Business and Public Policy, UPNG, residing in Port Moresby. A competitive remuneration package is available, including accommodation allowance and health insurance. Research funding is also available. The academics' accommodation and security needs will be looked after by Abt Associates, a managing contractor under the Australian aid program. Travel to and research periods at ANU are also budgeted for.

This is a fantastic opportunity to make a difference and build capacity in teaching and research of economics and public policy in Papua New Guinea.

Times Higher Education has helped to foster another important dimension of diversity at Harvard: international diversity. The exposure of Harvard's faculty positions on THEunijobs, since we embarked on our subscription package in October 2015, enhances our outreach efforts to a global community and showcases our institution as a destination of choice for academics around the world. Working with the THE team has also been a pleasure, and has enriched the conversation around international recruitment and retention.
