START YOUR RESEARCH DEGREE

At UWA you can enrol to study a Doctor of Philosophy, Masters of Philosophy, Professional Doctorate or a range of other research degrees at any time.

Admission Requirements

You must have completed, or expect to complete, a degree with a substantial research component.

You must also fulfil all UWA academic entry requirements including English language proficiency.

Research Preliminary Degrees and English bridging courses are available at UWA for students who do need meet our entry requirements

To start a research degree at UWA follow these four simple steps:

1. Choose a Supervisor

Contact a supervisor in the UWA school in which you intend to study. To find a supervisor you can explore our Research Publications and Expertise. The profiles of our Research Leaders may also help you select a potential supervisor. Or contact a Graduate Research Coordinator for the school in which you intend to study.

Prepare a brief (maximum 250 words) outline of the proposed area of study to discuss with your prospective supervisor.

2. Lodge an Application

Download and complete an application form and provide the necessary supporting documentation, such as your academic transcript.

Submit your application to UWA's International Centre Admissions who will provide advice and guidance.

3. Obtain Approval

Your application will be sent to your chosen school for consideration. Your research preparation, your proposed supervisors and the project will be considered.

4. Enrol

Once your application has been approved you will receive a detailed letter with the terms of your enrolment.
