WELCOME TO LA TROBE

Professor John Dewar
Vice-Chancellor and President

The University is committed to offering an educational experience where all students feel welcome and valued as part of our diverse student population.

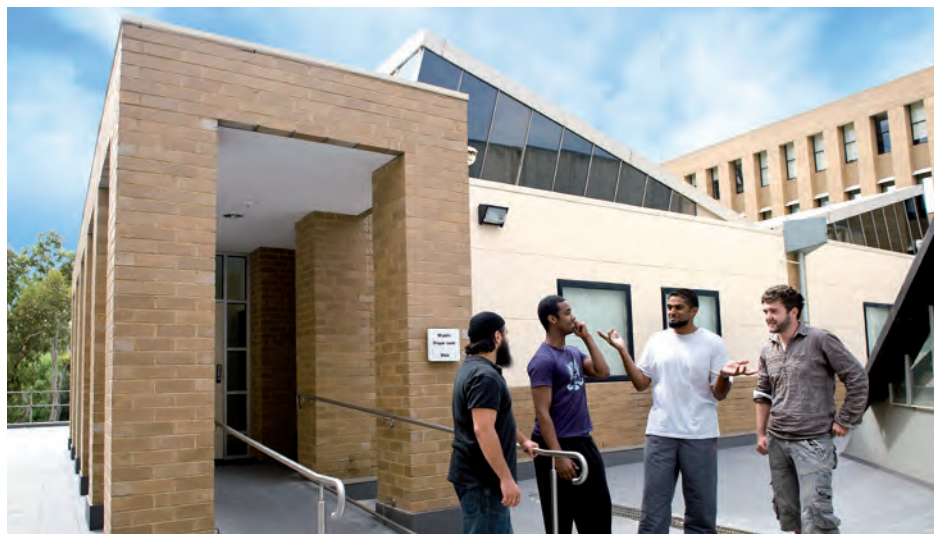

La Trobe University has over 30 000 students, and just over one quarter of our student population speak a language other than English at home. La Trobe University acknowledges and respects the different religions represented at our campuses, including the specific cultural and religious needs of Muslim students.

The Muslim Student Guide has been produced as a resource handbook for Muslim students. This handbook will assist students to access information and to transition to University.

I would like to take this opportunity to offer you my best wishes for success with your studies and I trust you will have a rich and rewarding experience during your time at La Trobe University.

Professor John Dewar
Vice-Chancellor

SUPPORT SERVICES ON CAMPUS

EQUALITY AND DIVERSITY CENTRE

The principal role of the La Trobe Equality and Diversity Centre (EDC) is to promote full and equal participation for all students and staff of La Trobe University and to foster an environment free of discrimination and harassment. It aims to promote the principles inherent in international, national and state legislation related to human rights, anti-discrimination and equal opportunity.

Harassment and discrimination

La Trobe University has policies and procedures on sexual harassment, harassment, and discrimination, which make clear that discrimination and harassment of people on the basis of personal characteristics, such as religion, is unacceptable at La Trobe University. It also gives a means of resolution to those who feel they are victims of harassment or discrimination.

Sexual harassment is a form of unlawful discrimination and is against the law. Behaviour that might be acceptable in other countries could be against the law in Australia. Conversely, behaviour that Australians find acceptable might offend international students.

Sexual harassment is any conduct of a sexual nature that is unwelcome and is likely to cause someone to feel offended, humiliated or intimidated.

In Victoria, racial and religious vilification is also unlawful. Vilification is defined as conduct that incites hatred against, serious contempt for, or revulsion or severe ridicule of another person or class of person on the grounds of their race or religion.

If you believe you have experienced unlawful discrimination, vilification or sexual harassment, you are encouraged to seek help from a trained adviser.

Further information can be found on La Trobe's Equality and Diversity website, or on the Victorian Government's Human Rights Commission website. latrobe.edu.au/equality humanrightscommission.vic.gov.au

Bullying

The University does not tolerate any form of bullying. Bullying is considered an abuse of power and involves repeated unreasonable behaviour, such as verbal abuse, humiliation through sarcasm, criticism or insults, excluding or isolating a person, psychological/emotional harassment, intimidation, assigning unreasonable tasks, deliberately withholding information or inconveniencing someone.

If you are upset by the behaviour of someone at La Trobe University you are encouraged to seek help.

For more information or advice about bullying, visit the Equality and Diversity website.

latrobe.edu.au/equality

Student rights

In Australia there are laws that protect people from discrimination based on:

- race, skin colour, national or ethnic origin, nationality
- gender, lawful sexual activity, sexual orientation, marital status, pregnancy or potential pregnancy, breastfeeding, status as a parent or carer
- religious or political belief or activity, industrial activity
- age, physical features, disability (past, present or imputed), medical record
- personal association with someone identified by reference to any of the above.

COUNSELLING

Counselling is a process of talking and listening that may help to creatively resolve problems. You may wish to discuss issues such as life transition, concerns about study-related issues, relationship difficulties, questions of identity and self-esteem, depression and anxiety, coping with disabilities or health problems. The counselling service is free and by appointment.
